DAVID BAYLOR TO JOIN VECTOR CAPITAL AS CHIEF OPERATING OFFICER

World Class Financial Executive to Help Manage Vector's Growth and Expansion

San Francisco—March 12, 2008—Vector Capital, a leading private equity firm specializing in spinouts, buyouts and recapitalizations of established technology businesses, today announced that David Baylor, chief operating officer and chief financial officer of Thomas Weisel Partners will join the firm as chief operating officer, following his departure from Thomas Weisel Partners.

Baylor, 48, will be based in San Francisco and will be responsible for all of Vector's internal operations, management, and infrastructure. The breadth and depth of his experience at Thomas Weisel Partners and Montgomery Securities will strongly position Vector to anticipate the challenges of growth and successfully achieve greater scale. Last year, the firm raised Vector Capital IV, L.P., a $1.2 billion investment fund, bringing total capital under management to over $2 billion.

"Vector Capital is proven for its ability to identify and successfully execute on sophisticated, value-based technology investment opportunities," said Baylor. "An early participant in technology private equity, Vector continues to gain momentum and I look forward to applying my skills and operational expertise to be an integral part of its growth and expansion."

"We are thrilled to welcome David to the Vector Capital team. As we look to our second decade of growth, we plan to increase significantly our investment in infrastructure and operations," said Alex Slusky, managing partner of Vector Capital. "With his wealth of skills and experience from larger financial institutions, David is a natural choice to lead that effort at Vector."

During his 10 years at Thomas Weisel Partners, Baylor held several executive management positions, including COO, CFO, chief administrative officer, and general counsel. Prior to Thomas Weisel Partners, Baylor was a certified public accountant with Deloitte & Touche LLP, an attorney with Howard, Rice, Nemerovski, Canady, Falk & Rabkin, and a managing director with Montgomery Securities. Baylor received a Bachelor of Science degree from Arizona State University and a J.D. from the University of California, Berkeley.
